DETAILED ACTION

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments, see Remarks pages 1-7, filed 30 August 2005, with respect to the rejections have been fully considered and are persuasive.

The rejections of claims 2-3 and 5 under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, have been withdrawn since applicant amended the claims to include the required essential element.

The rejections of claims 2-3, 8, and 14-15 under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) stand withdrawn in view of applicant's amendments to include the additional limitation of what constitutes a feature parameter.

Therefore, all requirements and rejections have been traversed and/or withdrawn.

Applicant's arguments with regards to the Finality of the previous Office Action are moot since the case has been passed to issue.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 2-3, 5-6, 8-9, 11-12, 14-15, and 17-18 are allowed.

Claims 6, 11-12, and 17-18 were allowed in a previous Office Action. Reasons for allowance of those claims are stated therein.

Claim 5 is allowed for the reasons stated previously, since the deficiencies of the claim under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, have been corrected.

Claims 2, 8, and 14 are an apparatus, method, and computer program for performing the same tasks. They are allowed because the prior art does not teach that the feature parameter includes at least a feature of a radical based on the character's stroke, where such features are those such as are listed in the bottom of claim 5 for example, which apply to CJK characters. The genetic algorithm processing section to create new font characters based on the user's input character to generate a new font from a previously existing one as applied herein is non-obvious. When taken in combination with the above feature, it is therefore novel and non-obvious.

Claim 3, 9, and 15 respectively are allowed because they are dependent upon allowed claims 2, 8, and 14 respectively.

Conclusion

Any inquiry concerning this communication or earlier communications from the examiner should be directed to Eric V. Woods whose telephone number is 571-272-7775. The examiner can normally be reached on M-F 7:30-4:30 alternate Fridays off.
